"A Girl of the Mountains."

"A Girl of the Mountains," the four act society drama by Lem B. Parker, is something new, something worth seeing, at the Norway Opera House on Wednesday, Oct. 11, 1911. It develops a strong plot with very dramatic situations in such a delicate and picturesque style that one must at once place it far above the ordinary drama. An especially strong scene, one that will grip its hearers, is brought about when Nellie, the Mountain Girl, discovers that she has been betrayed by Richard Thurston, a wealthy New Yorker. The scene is most graphic and telling and bound to command unflagging attention. The critics of the country have praised "A Girl of the Mountains" until its fame is second to none. The public, which pays its good money to be entertained at the theatre, has seen, marvelled and commended in pleasing terms. There is nothing more to be said but go and see it.

Secret Organizations in Public Schools.

The enclosed letter addressed to secondary school principals is of public interest:

To the Principal:—I beg to call your attention to a matter which I believe to be of great concern to our secondary schools and, indirectly, to the educational system of the State.

There have been introduced within a few years into several of our public high schools secret organizations of the students. These organizations have for some time been in existence in the schools of other states where their influence has been found to be antagonistic to the welfare both of the students and of the institutions.

The public high schools are supported by the taxation of all the people. Such schools should under no circumstances countenance any instrumentality which makes for the separation of the student body into cliques or factions based upon assumed privileges granted to some of the students but denied to others. The secret scieties herein mentioned are not open to all students of the schools. Any exclusive privilege of this kind is diametrically opposed to the fundamental democracy of the public school.

It has been noted that these organizations tend to increase the expense of education both to the members and to others in the more expensive customs introduced and the natural desire of other students to "keep up" with their fellows.

It would be most unfortunate if the expenses of high school attendance in our cities and towns should increase so that secondary school education should come to be regarded as an opportunity open only to the children of well-to-do parents. The tendency in this direction of greater expense should be checked and discouraged wherever it is encountered. It is the duty of high school instructors especially to use their influence against any customs that tend in this direction of increased cost.

Among the evils that are attendant upon secret organizations in high schools is that which grows out of the rivalry that exists among them for the securing of school and class honors. So intense is this rivalry at times that the organization or society becomes hardly less than a machine for obtaining such rewards. School spirit and class loyalty are not seldom made subservient to the interests of the society. Such methods cannot be productive of the best results in proper training for citizenship.

So destructive of democratic purposes of the schools have these secret organizations been shown to be that several state legislatures have enacted laws forbidding their existence in the public schools. In Maine I believe it will be sufficient to call the attention of parents and students to their attendant evils and to the necessity of the cooperation of these forces in order that their further extension or growth may be checked.

I believe you will not misconstrue a criticism of secret organizations into one of student organizations generally. Debating and social societies open to all students who may care to join, and conducted under the direction and guidance of the school authorities, with full opportunity given to parents to know of the inner workings and plans will do much to promote the interests both of the students and of the schools and they may well be encouraged.

I hope you may be willing, if such organizations already exist in your school, to call upon the students and parents to cooperate with you in their elimination. In schools where they do not already exist full information of their attendant faults should render easy their permanent exclusion.

With wishes for a most successful year in the prosecution of your important work, I am, Faithfully yours,

PAYSON SMITH.

The funeral was held Thursday, Sept. 21st, at her late home, where Rev. R. J. Bruce was the officiating clergyman. Mrs. Bruce sang very feelingly the hymn, "Jesus Lover of My Soul." The story is told that one morning recently, after the freeze, that E. N. Swett went out to turn on the water by Foster's store to wash his store windows and upon finding that the water did not "turn on" proceeded to thaw out the faucet. He got hot water and did all that he could to get it started. After working for some time Howard Smith came along and inquired as to what the trouble was. Mr. Swett told him he thought the faucet must be frozen. Mr. Smith, however, did not think so and having a little knowledge as to the situation told him he better go inside and turn the water on before he thawed it out. This done, it needed no further thawing.

Camp Comus Notes.

We were very much put out about Mr. Albert Clyde Fogg not being able to accompany us boys to Camp Saturday night, but Mr. Clyde was right on deck Sunday getting the Dinner on for us boys. Clyde always does a good job when it comes to baking roasts and when it comes to eating them he can't be beaten.

Arthur Welch did a nice piece of work when he built a large addition to the ice house. He intends to have an addition to the wood shed later, as we boys have a large amount of wood sawed ready to split.

Mr. Welch has also discovered that the last car leaves Paris 10.15 p. m. as he tried that stunt and incidently had to walk to camp only 4 miles.

Well that Pop Corn had to be postponed on account of the stormy weather. Hubert Bethel was our honored guest Sunday. Mr. Bethel has been employed at Maplewood Hotel at the White Mts. The boys were very glad to see him.

Mr. Lanen refuses to talk about doughnuts, but will talk about horses and teams and any business proposition. Mr. Lanen is a very careful driver and he always takes a short cut so as not to tire the horse. We thought Mr. Welch had forgotten about the Phonograph, but he is spending all his spare time working on it, hard telling if he will ever finish it, as he is a very busy man.

We are expecting company Sunday, so will try and furnish a good writing next week. Mr. Wood and Christian stay in nights and study music. Both of these young men have fine musical talent.

Homer Tubbs is able to work after his attack of rheumatic fever.

May Wiley, a former resident of Bethel, is the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Geo. I. Cummings.

Victor Rowe and Maude Rowe of Melrose, Mass., and Fred I. Farwell of Somerville, Mass., spent Wednesday at Mrs. R. M. Swan's.

Last week Wednesday, when Frank Gammon was cleaning up the engine at the new pumping station after filling the reservoir, he noticed several small cracks on the crank shaft of the engine. He immediately notified Capt. Whitmarsh and on investigation it was thought best to send to Portland for a machinist. The foreman of the Portland Machine Company came up and made a thorough investigation and thought best to have a casting made and firmly bolted to the crank shaft and allay all danger of any other breaking. In the meantime South Paris Water Co. is supplying Norway with water from their reservoir. As it happened the old pumping station was out of commission as the pump was being lowered on account of low water.

The Florence E. Smith's two residences, corner of Cottage and Summer streets, Norway village, has been sold to C. Verne Webber for occupancy.

Rev. R. J. Bruce will preach at the church at Norway Center, Sunday afternoon. This will be the last service that Mr. Bruce will hold at the Center this fall.

Tax collector F. E. DeCoster will keep his office open Saturday evenings from now until Dec. 15, from 7 to 9. This is for the benefit of the tax payers who are unable to see the collector during the day.

Rally Day will be observed at the Congregational church Oct. 29. Arrangements are being made for an interesting program with special music, and addresses by several prominent men of Norway and South Paris.

It is expected work will commence next week by Hiram Wiles and Mell Sampson to remove the dangerous rocks in the Lake. They will begin near the islands and come to the boathouses and remove the rocks that interfere with boating. The subscription paper is getting along well but still needs more money to complete the undertaking.

The annual meeting of Oxford Royal Arch Chapter, No. 29, F. & A. M. was held Wednesday evening in Masonic hall. The usual amount of business was transacted and the reports read, with work in the P. M. and M. E. M. degrees. A banquet followed. The officers chosen for the ensuing year are:

K.—A. E. Forbes.
S.—D. M. Stewart.
Treas.—J. N. Favor.
Sec.—C. F. Ridlon.

Noble's Corner.

W. A. Hersey is cutting O. B. Upton's ensilage this week.

F. A. and H. M. Hunt are picking apples for Allie Wyman.

C. A. Stephens has commenced to pick apples at his farm on Upton Ridge.

Allie Wyman has sold his apples to parties from away, to be packed next week.

Charlie Richardson picked about twelve hundred bushels of yellow corn from five acres of fodder. He hires help by the day and is husking it out, thinks it cheaper than to have a husking as some folks do.

Olin Upton picked 380 bushels of corn from two acres and had a husking last Saturday night, at which 75 people took hold and stripped it at short notice, after which they partook of a bountiful supper; then all went home rejoicing.

A Measure of Merit

Norway Citizens Should Weigh Well This Evidence.

Proof of merit lies in the evidence.
Convincing evidence in Norway.
Is not the testimony of strangers,
But the endorsement of Norway people.

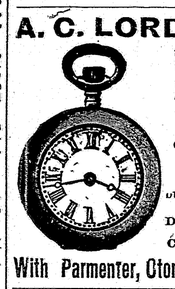

That's the kind of proof given here—
The statement of a Norway citizen.

O. I. Pitts, blacksmith, Main street, Norway, Me, says: "I was attacked with kidney trouble several years ago, caused by a cold settling in my kidneys. I suffered from pain across my back and sides and I also had difficulty with the kidney secretions. Hearing Doan's Kidney Pills highly recommended, I procured a box at Stone's Drug Store and began using them. They cured me, and for that reason I do not hesitate to recommend them."

The above statement was given July 24, 1908, and on July 11, 1911, Mr. Pitts said: "Since Doan's Kidney Pills cured me three years ago I have had little or no trouble from my kidneys. I recommend this remedy whenever I have the opportunity." 40 41

Sunset on the Hills.

I stood upon the hilltop's crest,
That overlooked forest and lea,
Watching the cloudlets in the west
That bordered Heaven's canopy.

The moulten sun was sinking low:
The shadows climbed up higher—
Autumn's folia e cast a deeper glow;
The floating clouds seemed on fire.

While low down long ribbons of gold,
Like bars stretched across the west,
Put up by angel's hands to hold
Mortals from the immortal blest.

Entranced—I gazed at the rapturous sight
In fancy, I can see it even now,
The lingering smile of the soft daylight,
And the flush that mantled evening's brow.

Gorgeous! well language fails to tell—
Of skill to paint in colors bright,
When softly and tenderly daylight fell
Into the embrace of lovely night.

Crimson, gold and scarlet of every hue,
Tinged and tinted the clouds afar,
On a background of the loveliest blue,
Set with a shimmering silver star.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

FRYEBURG.

Fryeburg Academy.

Fryeburg Academy enters upon its one hundred and ninteenth year with an enrolment that will probably exceed that of last year when 134 pupils were in attendance.

The academy now qualifies under the State regulations in maintaining, besides the century old courses of college preparatory and academic, a course in drawing and painting, in manual training, in business, and in agriculture. A new gymnasium is now assured, work to be commenced early next spring.

The vacancy on the board of trustees caused by the recent death of Judge Henry Clay Peabody of the Maine Supreme Court, has been filled by the election of United States Judge Clarence Hale of Portland.

Steam heat is this fall being put into Alumni House, the dormitory for girls, at an expense of about $600. Alumni House is the property of the Alumni Association of the academy, and is maintained by them at a considerable expense. The association also provides a manual training room for the classes, and rooms, rent free, for four of the women teachers.

Struck by a Tree.

Geo. Charles of Fryeburg Center, while working in the woods at Cold River, was felled by a tree which struck him across his neck. He was brought out on a stretcher and is completely paralyzed. Dr. Baker of North Fryeburg took him to the Maine General hospital Tuesday.

Mrs. Willis Farrington, West Fryeburg, is dangerously ill.

Mrs. Herbert Clay of Portland spent Sunday with Mrs. E. E. Hastings. Mr. and Mrs. Clay are guests of Mr. and Mrs. Hastings at their camp on Lower Kezar for two weeks.

The academy has opened with 125 scholars. President Robert J. Aley of the University of Maine, spoke in Academy hall on the evening of Oct. 2, on Present Meaning of Education.

Over a hundred partook of the harvest supper provided by the ladies of the G. A. R. at K. of P. hall. Beans, brown bread, corned beef and cabbage, pumpkin and squash pies, cakes of all sorts and kinds with coffee, doughnuts and cheese to top off with. After supper dancing was enjoyed with Charlotte Pike and Edna Chase at the piano.

Benj. T. Newman, a Maine artist of note, whose home is Fryeburg, has had an order for six large paintings of mountain scenery, each six by eight feet, which he has been at work on this season. They were ordered by H. W. Hayford of North Conway. Mr. Newman has had his work accepted in the Paris Salon and many of his water color sketches of Intervale winter scenes are scattered over Maine not to mention the more valuable works of art which have gone out from his picturesque little studio in Fryeburg. He, for some years has been head of the department of art and manual training in historic Fryeburg Academy.

Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Hastings are entertaining Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Clay of Bramhall street, Portland, at the Hastings cottage, Camp Lowen, Kezar Lake. Among the recent visitors at this cottage have been Granville Austin of Dorchester, J. Frank Merrill and James W. Eastman of Fryeburg.

The college students, who have been spending their vacations in town and have returned to their studies, are: Edward G. Weston, George B. Newman and Perley Smith to the University of Maine; Milroy Warren to Colby college; M. Aimee Ballard and Vera Cameron to Bates college and Mary E. Hastings to Vassar college, New York.

George Charles of North Chatham, who was so severely injured Monday, Sept. 25, while logging in the forests of that town, did not long survive the accident. When the large tree which struck him fell, only the invention of a soft stump that broke the force of the fall prevented instant death. He was taken to the hospital in Portland for treatment, Tuesday morning. He was a brother of Norman Charles of Fryeburg.

Mrs. W. E. Everett of Waterford shows us some strawberry blossoms and May-flowers budded, ready for next spring's blossoms.

The Farm of Today.

The farm is no longer the isolated habitation of former years. The rural delivery and the telephone have had their beneficent influences. What once were lonely households can now have the comforts and conveniences of city life. Farmhouses can be heated by the most approved methods, and running water installed into households where burdensome wells furnished for many years the only water supply. Even the song of The Old Oaken Bucket could not render pleasure to the family who trudged to and from the well so often every day that even the thought of water was a burden.

There was a time when farms were considered less valuable because the communication between the village, the post-office and the market was so difficult. It is not too optimistic to believe that the day is now dawning when the automobile which will carry the farm products to market will also carry the family, and what has been for generations a long, tedious distance and a hard disagreeable journey will now be really a trip of pleasure. The auto truck, now being so generally introduced in the cities is sure to be made useful to the large gardener and farmer. Produce from farms located twelve to fifteen miles away consumes on the road to market and return a full day and a weary team of horses come home late at night. With the auto truck much larger loads could be carried and three or four times as many trips per week could be made. Who will say how few the years will be when every Maine farm of good size now located so far from market as to seem to many of us nearly worthless, will have such transportation facilities by means of gasoline or storage battery power as to seem right at our very doors? Let the day speedily come and let the good old Pine Tree State take its place it ought to hold among the producing estates.

In one of the agricultural papers there is an illustration of an automobile which has been changed from a pleasure vehicle to one for delivering milk, farm products, etc. The owner states that it was a two cylinder car, that it had been run ten thousand miles before he bought it, that it is capable of making 40 to 60 miles an hour and on good roads now he sometimes "lets it go some." Says also that his wife rides, in it in preference to the carriage drawn by horses. Forenoons it is used for delivering milk, in the afternoon it goes to market. There is an automobile in use that was used previous to this year for pleasure only. The present owner without difficulty had the top exchanged and it is now carrying the mails and is doing the work, he says, of four horses.

The Board of Trade's tour of last May through the State planned to bind together the good will of the city and country in a bond of friendship, not only accomplished its purpose much beyond the expectations of the most sanguine, but it imparted a pleasure and profitable experience to every one who made the journey. We found in the princely garden spot of our State where farmers make money, not as an exception but as a rule—the automobile rolled as freely over the good roads as in the streets of our cities.

We have the productive land and we have the climate to produce the best corn, the best apples, and by far the largest yield of potatoes of any state in the Union. Our average of corn and oats is 46 bushels while for the whole country 28 bushels and 25 bushels respectively is the average. In potatoes we are so far in advance of all other states we can congratulate ourselves upon our distinction. 220 bushels per acre is Maine's average, while the state coming nearest to that amount raises only two-thirds as many, or 70 bushels less per acre. The great potato raising states of New York, Michigan and Wisconsin grow 95 to 105 bushels to the acre—less than half the average of our own State, taking Aroostook and the other fifteen counties together.

These three, corn, oats and potatoes, are the chief crops of America, and the reason our lands are not more extensively devoted to them is we have not realized what superior advantages we have for growing them. We ought to get into a condition of mind in Maine where we want enlightenment in the line of farming. There was raised last year of alfalfa, a comparatively new plant, one-sixth of our whole country's hay crop—value $100,000,000. We certainly want a variety that will grow in our own latitude. What farmer would not be happy to raise three to five tons per acre of hay equal in value to good wheat bran? Much is said in praise of the good qualities of the winter and summer vetches and of soy beans. When the government began investigation there were known to be of soy beans five or six varieties. Now fully 200 are recognized. A few of our people are testing with indifferent success small parcels of alfalfa and many other things.—[Turf, Farm and Home.

One Million Dollars for a Good Stomach.

This Offer Should Be a Warning to Every Man and Woman.

The newspaper and medical journal recently have had much to say relative to a famous millionaire's offer of a million dollars for a new stomach.

This great multi-millionaire was too busy to worry about the condition of his stomach. He allowed his dyspepsia to run from bad to worse until in the end it became incurable.

His misfortune serves as a warning to others.

Every one who suffers with dyspepsia for a few years will give everything he owns for a new stomach.

Dyspepsia is commonly caused by an abnormal state of the gastric juices, or by lack of tone in the walls of the stomach. The result is that the stomach loses its power to digest food.

We are now able to supply certain missing elements—to help to restore to the gastric juices their digestive power, and to aid in making the stomach strong and well.

We know that Rexall Dyspepsia Tablets are a most dependable remedy for disordered stomachs, indigestion and dyspepsia.

We want you to try them and will return your money if you are not more than satisfied with the result.

Three sizes, 25 cents, 50 cents and $1.00. Remember, you can obtain Rexall Remedies in this community only at our store—The Rexall Store. F. P. Stone, 143 Main St., Norway. 40

North Waterford—Oct. 6, 7.

Fryeburg Fair.

Once more among the hills and beautiful scenery, the Fryeburg Fair is in progress. As usual the only horse car line now in use is running and doing business conveying passengers from the station to the fair grounds.

The grounds have a slightly different appearence this year as the society has extended its grounds one road outside the fence, that they may control and keep it clean to prevent fires. The buildings are equal to any fair buildings in the State, and the grounds containing 40 acres are attractive with immense pines against the magnificent mountains for a background. The track is also one of the best tracks to train on as it does not make horses sore, and two hours of sunshine will put it in good condition after any rain.

The Fair officers are:

Pres.—Wm. Gordon.
V. Pres.—A. R. Hill
Sec.—B. Walker McKeen.
Treas.—A. D. Merrill.
Aud.—Wm. Gordon
Trustees—J. Howard Woodward, Conway; Corydon T. Shortridge, Fryeburg; Reuben Smith, Denmark; Stillman Durgin, Brownfield; C. F. Clemons, Hiram; John F. Pillsbury, Bridgton; N. T. Fox, Lovell; Chas. S. Chandler, Chatham; R. M. Brooks, Freedom.
Fin. Com.—C. E. Fox, Fryeburg; James R. Hill, Brownfield; John B. Danforth, Brownfield.
Division Superintendents:
Grounds—J. Howard Woodward.
Hall—John A. Andrews.
Tickets—Seth Heald.
Trotting horses—B. Walker McKeen.
Exhibition horses—J. B. Danforth.
Stock—Reuben Smith.
Grand stand—J. R. Hill.
Forage master—George Booth.
Assistant—Levi Johnson.
Transportation—N. T. Fox.
Fakirs—C. E. Fox.

Two hundred dollars have been laid out on the track and cattle sheds this year. A large tent has been procured for the poultry exhibits. A show ring for use in judging stock has been constructed. A large number of horses have been entered and an unusually large number of cattle were shown.

The restaurant is in the hands of Frank Thoms and wife, proprietor of the Argue Not. Chandler's Band of Portland furnished the music.

More space than ever before is let on the midway, but Manager Charles Fox is taking care that the shows are clean and no games are allowed.

There was a very good attendance for the first day. The Grange exhibits were in the upper and lower hall.

There is the largest and finest exhibit of neat cattle and oxen that was ever given at any annual fair in the history of the society. There were on exhibition many animals of the Holstein, Jersey, short-horn and other breeds from Fryeburg, Denmark, Baldwin, the Conways and other towns. The prize winning Holstein cows from the Elmwood Farm of Conway, John E Pottter, proprietor, are on the grounds. Several of these cows have the State record of New Hampshire for their high milk and butter production. These cows attract much attention. There are also large and attractive exhibits of swine with young pigs, sheep, horses and colts.

Tuesday was Children's day, and all the schools within the limits of the society were invited to attend. On the arrival of the train from Portland the children of the public schools and their teachers formed in line, with Chandler's military band at the head. They marched to the grandstand, where the exercises were held under the direction of B. Walker McKeen, the secretary of the society. The program consisted of three patriotic songs by the children and addresses by Payson Smith, State Superintendent of Schools, and Robert J. Aley, president of the University of Maine. They were upon educational topics.

The address by President Aley was very fine and was enjoyed by young and old. He sought to impress upon all the value and importance of a good education, and the great help such an educational training was in making life happier and more successful for girls and boys, as well as men and women.

In the afternoon the Fryeburg academy baseball team played against the team from Conway, N. H., and were the victors: score 7 to 1 in favor of Fryeburg. The races resulted as follows:

2.15 Trot, 2.18 Pace, Purse $175.

WORDSWORTH'S OPINION.

Oh, when the sun awakes all life
You know it's coming by the dawn.
Unhappy is the man whose wife
Desires to put the trousers on.

KIPLING'S ULTIMATUM.

Strength is a thing of the muscle and not of a woman's mind.
A guide who will watch the menu—that is a wooer's goal.
Go ask the men who have suffered. This you will surely find:
What you want is a wench at the cook stove, not a brawling jade at the poll.

A Hint About Knives.

Knives should never be dipped in hot water, as it loosens the handles. The blades may be placed upright in the water in a mug, by which plan the handles will be kept dry. Steel knives that are not in general use may be kept from rusting if they are dipped in a strong solution of soda (one part water to four parts soda). Then wipe dry, roll in flannel and keep in a dry place.

"You Two Ought to Be Carrying Him."

Daddy's Bedtime Story—Hard to Please Everybody

ONE evening the children, Jack and Evelyn, asked daddy to tell them "an old, old story—one that daddy liked to hear when he was a little boy." So daddy told them about the man and his son and their donkey.

"Once upon a time," daddy began, "there was a man who lived in Greece with his young son. He was a very poor man, and he became poorer and poorer until he had nothing left but a donkey. They needed food, so the man made up his mind to sell the donkey.

"'Come, son,' he said one morning, 'we will go to town and sell poor Jack.' So they tied a halter around Jack's neck and began walking to town. The first man they met laughed heartily at them, and when they asked him the reason he said it looked strange to him to see the man and boy walking along leading the donkey when one of them might just as well be riding on the donkey's back.

"'Very well,' said the man; 'get up on the donkey's back, son, and we'll go to town that way.'

"A little farther along they met another man. He looked at them and said, 'Shame on you, boy, to ride and let your father walk.' So the father made the boy get down, and he himself got on the donkey's back. They rode that way for a short distance until they met still another man. He said: 'Well, well, of all the foolishness—one of you walking when you might both be riding on the donkey! He is strong enough to carry you both.'

"The donkey's owner thought that was good advice, so he got on the donkey's back with the boy. After riding thus a short distance another man on the road called out to them:

"'You two ought to be ashamed of yourselves—two of you on one small donkey. Why, instead of riding on that poor little donkey you two ought to be carrying him!'

"That was enough for the man. He made the boy get down from the donkey and got down himself. Then they cut a pole from a tree at the roadside, tied the donkey's feet together, and with the man at one end of the pole and the boy at the other they began to carry the donkey.

"Soon they reached a bridge over a deep river. The donkey, with his head hanging downward, saw his reflection in the water and became frightened. He began to kick and to struggle so hard that the man and the boy had to drop the ends of the pole. Then the donkey rolled over the side of the bridge into the river. Of course he could not swim with his feet tied, so he was drowned. And the end of the story is that the man lost his donkey as a result of trying to follow everybody's advice."

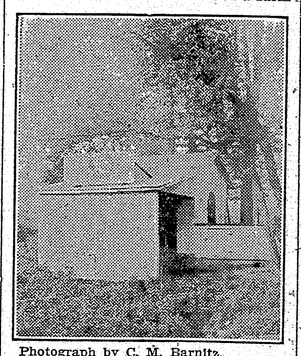

Farm and Garden

WATER AS A CROP.

Good Trades In Bottle Product Possible In Many Localities.

Water as a crop has not received the attention from farmers which it deserves, according to experts who have investigated the matter. In their opinion there are many districts in this country in which profitable trades in bottled water could be worked up at little cost to the farmers, provided, of course, they have never failing springs of pure water from which to supply the demand.

A great many cities are complaining of the inferior quality of the water furnished by the city waterworks, and the coming of the "water wagon" laden with bottles the contents of which would be guaranteed pure and wholesome by chemical analysis would be a welcome sight. A recent case in which a good business in bottled water has been established is that of a farmer living within easy hauling distance of a small Pennsylvania city. The city is supplied with water from the Susquehanna river, which at this point is polluted by sewage and other offensive material. Although the water is filtered by the city many persons consider it not fit to drink. The farmer has a spring of beautifully clear, pure water. He bottles it and conveys it in crates to the city, many of the people of which are glad to pay the moderate price asked for the water. The trade is profitable to the owner of the spring, although he has gone to the expense of putting in a pump to draw the water into the house where the bottles are filled and a sterilizer for washing the bottles. The spring itself is walled, boxed and guaranteed dirt proof. The picture shows one view of the house in which the water is bottled.

BOTTLING HOUSE FOR SPRING WATER.

The nights are long, and this is a good time to call the members of the family and hired hands together after the evening meal and discuss the plans for the year.

The Profitable Cow.

A cow must produce about 4,000 pounds of milk and 160 pounds of butter fat to pay for her feed and labor. This is the dead line: 5,000 pounds milk, $10 profit; 8,000 pounds milk, $40 profit—four times as much. Ten cows averaging 8,000 pounds of milk are as profitable as forty cows producing 5,000 pounds. The cost of keep increases but $35 per cow, from 2,000 to 10,000 pounds of milk given, yet the income increases $115, or over three times as rapidly.—Professor W. J. Fraser, University of Illinois.

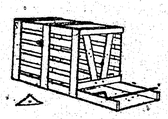

Ant Traps Are the Latest.

Trapping ants is a new method of elimination of insect pests which the department of agriculture experts are watching. In Louisiana and California the Argentine ant, the most persistent ever known by the biologists of the government, has been damaging horticulture by carrying scale insects from infested to uninfested trees and in other ways, and all anti-ant campaigns have so far failed as to this species.

Your wife is your partner, and when you buy a new farm implement to lighten your labor or enable you to produce better results you should always do as much for her and her work. If you can't do both, look after the partner first.

Dehorning Chute.

Chutes like the one shown in this cut, taken from Farm and Fireside, can be constructed of two inch lumber throughout, excepting for the two upper pieces on the sides, which are 1 by 16. A stanchion is provided at the front end with loose pins at bottom, which can be removed quickly and the animal driven out in front if desired. After the animal is fastened into stanchion a rope run around its neck and nose is fastened to the windlass and drawn taut. Bolts should be used throughout and clips on the crosspieces to insure strength.

DEHORNING CHUTE.

The country's doin' mighty well,
And ef the folks would let her
There's only jest this word to tell—
She'd do a durned sight better!
—Atlanta Constitution.

Some people find it difficult to determine just what constitutes a man's income for the purpose of taxation, but a justice of the peace in a New Jersey village was intent upon there being no mistake in his case.

He made his return to the tax assessor in the words: "For the last two years my income has been a little under $600 a year, but in the future it will be more precarious, as the man from whom I borrowed that money (my father-in-law) is now dead."—Brooklyn Life.

Whose face was exceedingly plain.

Janet—Please, mum, she made it with her false teeth.—London Opinion.

There was a man in our town
Who wrote a book and made
A very, very great mistake—
He called a spade a spade.
For our town is prudish.
He erred in being brave.

Spoiled Her Day.

In the days when executions were still carried out in public a servant girl upon one occasion begged her mistress to allow her a day out for a purpose which she did not divulge. The lady of the house gave the required permission, and the girl accordingly went off for the day, but returned in the evening weeping copiously.

"Why, Mary," asked her kindly mistress, greatly perturbed at the poor girl's evident distress, "what on earth is your trouble? Tell me, and perhaps I can help you."

"Oh, ma'am," blubbered Mary, "I went to see the man hanged at Salisbury, b-b-but he's been reprieved!"—London Answers.

Fall and Winter Millinery.

Hardly had the average woman got settled down to feel comfortable and at home in her summer hat and the "head of the house" got the bills off his mind when Father Time gave a turn to the season and millinery openings are again with us. Friday and Saturday were the days chosen by the Norway milliners. Many were disappointed because Friday was a rainy day. Still it did not prevent a goodly number of ladies from attending.

Miss H. M. Taylor's window in black with white lace curtains, with a dash here and there of the autumn leaf effect set off her millinery to good advantage. The central lady was costumed in the prevailing shades of purple with a fancy lace draped waist. The hat was large in the raisin shades, a wing across the front, gilt lace and apples with foliage.

Mrs. R. L. Powers' window was dressed in black and white, but the prettily blending shade of the millinery made it look merry. By the way, black and white is to be much worn this coming season. The lady was clothed in a stylish black velvet suit trimmed with black silk, relieved with white at the neck. Her large black hat had no trimming excepting the long fancy black feather in ostrich plume effect, the lower edge white and a black jet ornament.

Mrs. Powers has for assistants, Mary Adams, Bess Crandlemire, Mrs. Chas. Johnson, Lillian Powers and Mytella Mason.

Miss Taylor has besides herself, Miss A. M. Young of Chelsea, Mass., and Mrs. Gertrude A. Allen. She shows about 125 trimmed hats.

In blocked shapes the hats are inclined to be rather long than broad. There are of course extremes this season but they run to height of crown instead of breadth of brim. Most brims droop over the ears and roll up the back to show the hair.

Novelties in trimming shown are heavy wool embroidery, wide wool lattice work for draping, wings, ears etc. Plain colors and combinations of three or four colors. Another novelty is a Macarme net used over velvet or silk. Macarme is also shown in appliques and in band trimmings and frequently used in conjuntion with fur.

Terry or uncut velvet is thought well of, silk fringe is shown quite a little, also beaded fringe. Marabout pompons and plumes are considered very good. Large wings of folded velvet, ornaments, wool and metal cabochons, large jet clasps and buckles and tinsel appliques studded with jewels are shown.

Soft finish felt hoods in plain colors and two toned effects trimmed with just a cord or scarf are the extreme of negligee style. Velours and beavers are very good. Colors are saxon, royal, navy, emerald, violet, mole and Kelly green, browns black and white are leading colors, tan and black, also gold and silver are used extensively. Brush aigrettes are used on many models and some are made with claw base.

Propeller wings are sewn on the back of the hats and really resemble the propeller of an aeroplaine as nearly as a wing on a hat may be said to do. There are many small wings and fancies but large wings so far take the palm.

Flowers in miniature sizes are attractive for children's millinery.

Velours, scarlet felts, beavers, hatters' plushes, velvets, mirror and plain French or fur felts are some of the materials in the different shapes.

In looking around we will try to tell you about a few of the hats we saw. The largest one was a black velvet that must have been over two feet from side to side. From front to back you could take off perhaps half a foot. It was trimmed with two immense willow plumes. An aeroplaine hat is something new and while every one does not like flying we predict some will care for the hats. A tall garnet draped velvet hat for a young lady, with three little gilt ribbon bows up the side, front, and fancy aigrette garnet feather.

A black wigwam hat with feathers that go up straight around the tall crown trimmed with velvet and flat bow. A green silk beaver with white feather band, Psyche wings. A black velvet turban, with black and white collar and spangled draped crown, black French plumes. A bonnet effect in leather and lemon velvet. The crown of the draped lemon, lemon feathers and the brim of the leather color, corded. A black beaver toque trimmed with tan colored lace medallions, fancy aigrette and gold lace. A green changeable silk beechnut shaped turban trimmed with a green ostrich band, acorns and green velvet collar.

A mushroom turban of black mirror velvet, draped crown, the ears faced with gold cloth, a gold cord and tassels, the upper part of brim with black silk fringe. A large white plush draped with gold lace, uncurled ostrich feathers, faced with black velvet. A black mirrored velvet mushroom, the three ears faced with white made a three story affair, white fancy feather. A poke bonnet for a girl, the high back faced with light blue silk, and silk shirred around the crown a wreath of maiden hair ferns and tiny blue, pink and green roses, velvet ties.

A raisin velvet turban with oriental band, with a dash of changeable gold green silk ribbon. A large ribbed silk white hat, black velvet faced, white marabout band caught with gold ribbon bows, fancy white wings. A black mushroom with high band in back lined with leather velvet, fancy leather velvet, feathers. A black Nepoleon of mirror velvet with a black willow plume from right side. This shape is about as daring as the aeroplaine.

A large brown hat lined with old rose, a band of old rose and brown ostrich feathers two long loops of velvet. A green velvet turban, band of peacock blue, two fancy wings in green and blue. Mushroom lined with white, band of silver lace, black velvet draped crown, white marabout on left, black jet on right. A Tam-o-Shanta, band of gold, large crown of black velvet. A girl's hat of white beaver, large bow of black velvet and changeable red ribbon, faced with black velvet and a poinsettia under the brim. A girl's Mother Goose hat in dark red velvet, bow of changeable and blue ribbon, fancy cord. A brown mushroom hat in all the Indian features, feathers around the crown and other Pocahontas effects.

There are Indian bands made of beads and wool, airship wings, visors and other strange things that never before have been thought of in connection with women's hats.

Anti Knockers Club.

In a town not so very far away the young people recently resolved that they would cut all knocking from their conversation, and together they formed an anti-knockers' club. Well you may guess the result of their first sociable, but they lived up to their constitution and now the talk is about books, camping vacations, public matters, betterments for their village, and not the least best thing about it is that some of the things which used to be most talked about are not there to be talked now, even if there is a disposition to talk. Why not form a club of one, and never knock your friend, neighbor or fellow townsman? Many a person has gone wrong simply because those who were their friends talked that they were wrong.

Give a dog a bad name and he goes bad. Call a boy bad and he is likely to go bad. Let the people who live in a town talk the place down and we must expect outsiders to take their word for it and consider the place down.

The tenth annual meeting of the Maine Teachers' Association will be held at Augusta, Oct. 25, 26 and 27th.

Our first snow storm Sept. 29th. We need a good soaking rain, so many wells dry and people have to haul their water from the river and places where there is water.

As Joseph Kimball was going down past Wilson Emery's recently, not but a few rods from the house there stood a big moose eating apples from a tree. Its horns were immense. The horse was somewhat frightened as was the moose when he saw the team so near him.

SHE GOT WHAT SHE WANTED

This Woman Had to Insist Strongly, but it Paid

Chicago, Ill.—"I suffered from a female weakness and stomach trouble, and I went to the store to get a bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, but the clerk did not want to let me have it—he said it was no good and wanted me to try something else, but knowing all about it I insisted and finally got it, and I am so glad I did, for it has cured me.

"I know of so many cases where women have been cured by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound that I can say to every suffering woman if that medicine does not help her, there is nothing that will."—Mrs. JANETZKI, 2963 Arch St., Chicago, Ill.

This is the age of substitution, and women who want a cure should insist upon Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound just as this woman did, and not accept something else on which the druggist can make a little more profit.

Women who are passing through this critical period or who are suffering from any of those distressing ills peculiar to their sex should not lose sight of the fact that for thirty years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, which is made from roots and herbs, has been the standard remedy for female ills. In almost every community you will find women who have been restored to health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Her Hair Grew.

That's Why a Thankful Woman Recommends Parisian Sage.

Frank Kimball, proprietor of the Noyes Drug Store, will sell a fifty cent bottle of PARISIAN SAGE and guarantee it to banish dandruff, stop falling hair and itching scalp, or money back. It's a delightful hair dressing that makes hair lustrous and fascinating.

"In the spring I was recovering from a severe case of erysipelas, which left me virtually bald on the front of my head and next to my ears. The hair kept coming out rapidly and nothing I used stopped my getting entirely bald, until I used two bottles of PARISIAN SAGE. This tonic made my hair start to grow in and, in fact, grew me a good fair amount of hair, and it has entirely stopped my hair falling out.

It is with pleasure that I give a public recommend to PARISIAN SAGE, which I know is a wonder." Mrs. Ella Gilchrist, W. Pitt St., Bedford, Pa. 40-42

Maine Register.

A new edition of the Maine Register and State Year Book is now being distributed to its many patrons throughout the State.

This well known book, prepared pursuant to orders of the Legislature, has become a very important factor in Maine affairs, covering practically, with its carefully compiled statistics, every interest and institution in the entire State, from our largest cities to the smallest plantation, giving location, historical data, railroad connections, distances from county seats, population at each decade, number of polls, valuation, town officials, lawyers, doctors, clergymen, merchants, manufacturers, societies, etc. It contains the 1910 census and valuation for each city, town and plantation in the State.

It also gives tables of the banks, newspapers, insurance companies, trust companies, loan and building associations. State and County officers appear in their proper places, also U. S. officials, including members of Congress, and a great mass of information of much value to every citizen of Maine.

It grows in value with each issue and it never was so highly prized or thoroughly appreciated as it is today.

There is no office or home in the State that will not find the Maine Register a most valuable reference book.

Published by Grenville M. Donham, 390 Congress street, Portland, Maine. Price, postpaid $2.00.

NORTH NORWAY.

The Old Swift Store.

In a recent issue of your valuable paper there was an article on the Swift Store at Swift's Corner. The taking down of the old store, which has stood there 106 years, causes considerable comment, especially from the older residents of this locality.

The timbers of the frame are a sight to behold and many stop to examine them. The "flats" are 18 inches wide by 8 deep, clear pumpkin pine. The center floor timber above was 14 inches by 8. Some of the boards are more than two feet wide, also clear pine. There are many pleasing legends connected with the old store, among them the following: When the owner, Jonathan Swift, was alive and kept store there, he used to sell new rum to his customers by the glass. He charged three cents a glass, a small rum tumbler, and when he filled the glass he was in the habit of running an unusually large thumb into the glass, ostensibly to hold it. One day one of his regular patrons called for his glass of rum; and in went the thumb as usual to hold the glass. He filled it to brim, but when he handed it to his customer and removed his thumb one-third of it was gone. The customer said nothing till he drank the rum when he looked up and said:

"Look here Jonathan, I have bought that thumb of yours times enough to own it, now cut it off and give it to me!"

An old day book turned up in the store amongst the rubbish, and it was not an unusual thing to find charged to customers, "one pint of molasses and one gallon of rum."

It probably took a good deal of rum to raise that store, but it came down dry I can swear to.

IT'S BAD WEATHER FOR BAD PAINT

There are paints so bad as $1.00 a gallon.

We haven't any so bad as that; there is no good reason for making any so bad as that; there is no good reason for making bad paint at all.

Devoe cost less than those paints; it is strange indeed that anyone sells those paints; it is strange yet anyone buys them.

They take more gallons, cost more money, and don't wear as long.
